TREES AS SANITARY AGENTS.

Among the many and attractive features of Los Angeles is the multiplicity of its tree-growth. Our people have done well in the matter of tree-planting, but still there is room for additional well-doing.

The value of an abundance of shade trees in a city is not to be found alone in the beauty which they impart to the streets, nor in the refreshing shade which they furnish to the wayfarers who shun the heat and glare of the summer sun. They have other and even more beneficial uses, and these should not be lost sight of. As our city grows and expands to metropolitan dimensions, prominent above all others considerations should be the health-promoting conditions to be secured. Scientists assert that the functions of the trees which line a city's streets are not limited to shade-giving alone. They subserve other and far more important uses. They are screens from the dust, and the evaporation from their numberless leaves tends to cool and moisten the air about them.

It is a well-known practice of wise nurses to place plants in the sick room, often sprinkling them with water. The sprangle and refreshment that this brings to the atmosphere is too apparent to pass unnoticed. It is like the purification of a June thunder storm, only upon a lesser scale. Trees produce the same results as the sick-room plants in a multiplied degree. From their leafy lungs they pour out the pure oxygen that we need, and absorb the poisonous carbonic acid. They do also a most important work as scavengers, and one that should not be underrated. They thrust their roots into the soil and drink up the stagnant waters within their reach, and absorb the organic matter which is contained in the filth which abounds more or less in the streets of every city. In fact, they are active, diligent and tireless disinfectants, and as such their value should not be ignored.

Of course, judgment should be used in their planting. Sufficient space should be allowed to intervene between them, and they should not be so trimmed and trained as to present an almost impenetrable barrier to the sunlight, Sunshine, all know, is essential to health, and through the foliage of trees it may come to us filtered, cooled and softened.

Let us prize our trees, then, for their sanitary value, and as the city extends its limits let tree-planting keep pace with its growth. Let our property owners plant trees along the walks fronting their lands, and every home have its healthful shade. Let our public schoolhouses be surrounded with shade trees to cover the barrenness of the ground and shelter our children at their studies and their sports. He who plants a tree is a public benefactor, and his benefaction takes such shape as shall be a blessing not only to the generation in which he lives, but to the generations that shall come after him.

THE PRODUCTION OF BEEF.

New Mexico cattle-raiser says the profits in that business during the past year have been forty per cent. The knowledge of the profitableness of this pursuit in Texas and the Territories, where range is plenty and cheap, has attracted wide attention from capitalists, who are going into the business extensively. A favorite method of procedure is to combine capital in the form of joint-stock companies for the purpose of conducting the business on a large scale. The cattle-growing area of the older States is gradually contracting as population increases and land appreciates in value, and it may be set down as a fact that will do to "tie" to that the business of growing cattle on the broad ranges of the West and Southwest, for the supplying of beef to the more populous sections of the Union, as well as to England, will continue to be a standard and very profitable business. But the system of large cattle ranches, excluding settlement, discoursing the plow, and fostering monopoly of land, is by no means the best one for the country. It is a system that should be tolerated only in a new country where land is abundant and people scarce. The nomadic or pastoral life is antecedent to the agricultural, but cannot be suffered to stand in the way of the advent of the latter without detriment to the cause of civilization and true progress, which come with subdivision, settlement, tillage of the soil, and the making of homes. The better system is where the meat of the country is grown at home by the small farmers, instead of being brought from distant parts. It is under this system that the rearing of the domestic animals is made to yield the largest results. Improvement in the breeds is then possible to the fullest extent, and cattle do service as fertilizers as well as meat producers. On the great plains this double duty is impracticable; millions of dollars worth of fertilizing material annually goes to waste, and the profits of the business, great as they are, are not in fact equal the profits of the system of diversified farming.

It is the opinion of the assessor of San Francisco that the personal property roll of the city, this year, will exceed that of last year by $10,000,000, or $15,000,000.

JUDGE JERE BLACK firmly believes in the soundness of polygamy as well as a large fee.

It is claimed as a fact that the forthcoming pension list, which is to contain merely the names of each pensioner, his postoffice address, a statement of the amount of the pension and the reason why it is granted, will make a volume of 4500 pages. That of course depends upon the style in which it is to be printed. But whether the volume be of 4500 or of 450 pages, the plan of publishing the lists is a good one. It will make it easier to detect frauds and fraudulent claimants, assisting in the work of separating the false from the true. It will not be objected to by bona fide pensioners, for the list, when purged of pretenders and frauds, will be a roll of honor, worthy to bear the names of the men who received wounds in the country's service.

The Internal Revenue bill, which passed Congress on the last day of the session, makes some very material reductions and changes. The tax on banks and banking institutions is discontinued after May 1, 1883; and there will be no proprietary stamps issued after July 1. The tax on cigars is reduced from $5 to $3 per thousand, and on cigarettes from $1.75 to $0.50 per thousand. The special taxes or revenue licenses on dealers and manufacturers of tobacco and cigars and on cigar peddlers has been reduced one-half. The tax on manufactured tobacco has been reduced from sixteen cents to eight cents per pound, to take effect July 1, and the tax on matches has been repealed, to take effect at the same time. No reduction was made on whisky, and no decrease in revenue licenses was granted to dealers in spirits and beer. Drawbacks on manufactured tobacco, cigars and cigarettes will be allowed in full for all sums not less than $10.

The statement is made public that the unsold lands belonging to the Union Pacific Company amount to 14,465,000 acres. The average price of land sold last year was $4.45 per acre. If the remainder of the land can be sold at this average price, the lands will fetch $64,309,350. This amount would pay the liability to the Government, amounting to $46,775,000, together with the sinking fund bonds, which are a second lien on these lands, amounting to $13,531,000, and leaves a surplus of $8,742,350. The railroad company certainly cannot set up the plea of inability to pay its indebtedness to the Government that made its construction possible.

The Oakland Tribune says: "The Legislature passed a County Government bill, but it is declared unconstitutional by the best of lawyers in the Legislature. It passed a Legislative Apportionment bill, but it was not passed by the constitutional majority. It passed a Congressional Apportionment bill, which gerrymanders the State; but that, too, was not passed in a constitutional manner. In fact, the Legislature had no more regard for the Constitution than they had for the by-laws of the Jockey Club."

It is required, to know that the great Russian statesman and diplomat, Prince Gortschakoff, did not die by poison. The crime of his murder would have been an indelible stain upon the annals of the country he served so long and so well. The people of the United States do not forget that Gortschakoff and Russia were fast friends of the Union in the perilous time of the great civil war.

The STOCKTON HERALD (Dem.) has discovered that "the Los Angeles TIMES is a Republican organ that is hard to drown down." You have struck it exactly.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Senator Tabor of Colorado has been married three times—once to his first wife and twice to his present one.

Hon. W. W. Kellogg, State Senator, will deliver the oration at the Old Fellow's celebration in Quincy on April 20th.

John N. Irwin, one of the most brilliant young orators of Iowa, has been appointed Governor of Idaho. He is said to owe his position to Hon. Frank Hatton, of the Burlington Hawkeye, who is Assistant Postmaster-General.

Governor Stoneman visited the New City Hall yesterday, afternoon, and in company with Mayor Bartlett called on the heads of the several departments there located, and was introduced to the supervisors and such other officials with whom he had no previous acquaintance.—[San Francisco Call, Mar. 22.]

The Reno Gazette of Monday says: "Senator Fair arrived in Reno last night and continued on to the lay. He limped badly from a carbuncle on his right leg, caused by high living and Washington malaria. A sojourn by the gales of the sea will fix him all right."

Trevelyan, the new Chief Secretary of Ireland, is the nephew and biographer of Macaulay, the historian. Though a thorough Englishman, Trevelyan is not unpopular in Ireland. He is a man of literary tastes, and mixes freely with the Irish people. He is the successor of Lord Cavendish, who was murdered in Dublin.

THE ROAD TO RICHES VIA CALIFORNIA

AS TRAVELED BY J. FAY.

BY "ANDROS."

The times were hard, and business down.

As days as dull could be;

The world was dead, and the half-time,

Enforced economy.

And hosts of men for lack of work,

Were sent to the great suspension.

Weddings were scarce because young men

Fought for their bread.

Some went west, thinking that two

Could live as cheaps as one.

But the world was hard, and Fay,

Knew it could not be done.

He had to go back to the old hard,

With Georgia's Leyte.

But both agreed they would've

Gone to California, if they could've.

Julius had heard new men got rich

Out there, and he had resolved

And thought that if he once got here

He'd have some room for hope

The world was hard, and the "margins,"

In "pouts" and "calls" and "margins,"

The big world was hard, and Fay,

At the "golden gates,"

He thought it would be hard,

But he had agreed they would've

Gone to California, if they could've.

ALMOST A FATALITY.

A gentleman named Wm. Axford, lately of Flint, Michigan, was discovered in a semi-comatose condition in his bed at the Adams House, on Fourth street, yesterday morning. He was evidently suffering from a stroke of apoplexy, and it was thought he would die. He had taken a severe fall the night previous, and it was thought he would probably be dead within a few days.

James Fowler was drunk, and on promise to go to work, was allowed to go.

There were two arrests made for violating the ordinance, which will be heard
in court next day.

Major Ben C. Trammell, of the Central Pacific Railroad, made a pleasant call at the Edward Breitling, Congressman from Michigan, and the Lake Superior Iron King, is spending a few days at the Glendale Cottage, Riverside.

Mrs. H. LaFeta, who has been visiting the two little girls, has fast returned, much improved by her trip. She has a sister residing here now, Mrs. C. B. Woodhead.

POLICE COURT.

Geo. Hall, an ordinary eng. will take his trials at the Hotel de Thompson for the next twenty days, by invitation of Justice Morgan.

James Fowler was drunk, and on promise to go to work, was allowed to go.

There were two arrests made for violating the ordinance, which will be heard
in court next day.

Spencer Call was charged with battery in throwing some hot water at a boot-black. He settled with Madame Justice by depositing $20.
